William Richardson, 38, of Ardonia, was arrested in a New York city apartment Monday afternoon by state police and was returned to this county to await grand jury action on the charge that he shot and seriously injured a 33-year-old Ardonia woman early Sunday morning.

The injured woman, Miss Lilly Simpson, is "still on the danger list," Vassar Hospital authorities reported in Poughkeepsie this morning. State police said she was shot in the side with a 12 gauge shotgun at the Nicholas Apuzzo farm in Ardonia about 1:30 a. m. Sunday.

Richardson was arrested in an apartment at 228 East 99th street, New York city, by Trooper John Metzger, B.C.L., and New York city detectives, state police said. The address, that of a woman who state police described as Richardson's common law wife, was furnished by persons questioned at Ardonia.

Richardson was brought to this county for arraignment early today before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver of Esopus. He waived examination and was ordered held in the Ulster County Jail in Kingston for grand jury action. He is charged with first degree assault.

Disability Plan to Get

New York

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Governor Dewey will ask the next legislature to submit to the voters a $300,000,000 bond issue for housing and slum clearance.

Dewey, his top aides and legislative leaders agreed unanimously at a meeting yesterday to request the funds, James C. Hagerty, the governor's press secretary, said.

If the legislature agrees, the bond issue will appear on next November's ballot. The money would be used generally throughout the state, Hagerty said.

The group also agreed to hold public hearings in New York city next week on a proposal to establish a system of sickness disability benefits in the state.

Hagerty said the group touched briefly on taxes in deciding that the chairman of the legislature's two fiscal committees should start meeting immediately with Budget Director John E. Burton. These meetings, Hagerty continued, would cover "the entire subject of taxes and how they will relate to matters now under consideration."

The legislative leaders are Republican Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Republican Assemblyman D. Mulroy Stephens of Brewster, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

There was no other discussion of taxes, Hagerty said. He also said that Dewey's advisers were in accord with the governor in proceeding with construction at 15 state mental hospitals.

Dewey announced last week that the state was going ahead with the construction despite increasing costs. The work will cost $80,000,000 instead of the $39,824,000 estimated on the basis of 1940 costs, he said.

Chambers Faces Second Quiz by Grand Jurors

Seven Japs Given
New Lease of Life
By Jackson Vote

Will Hear Arguments Based on Whether Court Has Any Power to Intercede

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—A dramatically broken Supreme Court tie gave seven former Japanese warlords a new lease on life today—the seventh anniversary of the day of infamy they helped plot.

Splitting five to four, the tribunal agreed yesterday to consider whether it can pass on the findings of the International Court in Tokyo which doomed the men to hang as war criminals.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, who took leave from the bench in 1945 to prosecute Nazi Germany's war criminals, said the deciding vote before him "the issues here are truly great ones."

"Their decision will establish or deny," he declared, "that this court has power to review exercise of military power abroad and the president's conduct of external affairs of our government."

In earlier appeals to the tribunal from war crimes sentences meted out by American military courts in Germany, Jackson held aloof because of his role at Nuremberg as chief allied prosecutor. In those cases the Supreme Court divided 4 to 4 and because a tie vote denies an appeal—the sentences never were reviewed by the tribunal.

In no event will the court pass on the guilt or innocence of the Japanese. But it will hear arguments December 16 on (1) whether it has any power to intercede, and if so, (2) whether the 11-nation war crimes tribunal at Tokyo was legally set up.

MacArthur previously had stayed the executions pending action by the court. The doomed men who appealed from their November 12 convictions are Gen. Kenji Doihara, 64, an undercover agent for the Japanese Army in China and Manchuria, and Kokoro Hirota, 70, former premier who sat in on Pearl Harbor strategy talks.

Four other sentences to hang asked no intercession. In a soul-searching, six-page memorandum explaining his action, Jackson said he decided to break the tie at a court conference last Saturday. His hope, he said, is that "fuller argument and hearing will convert one or more of the justices on one side of the issue from the views that have equally divided them in the German cases."

He added that the hope that it will not be necessary for him to vote in the final decision, but he specifically reserved the right to do so. He said he found himself with these choices:

Confessed Courier Talks Until Early
Today to Members of House Group;
Nixon May Make Appearance

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Justice Department is making "every effort" to get quick indictments in the investigation involving Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss, a federal courthouse source said today.

The assertion was made as a spy-hunting federal grand jury began its second day of probing the sensational new charges of Chambers, confessed one-time Communist courier, against Hiss, former State Department official.

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Another day of questioning before a spy-hunting federal grand jury today confronted Whittaker Chambers, confessed courier for a pre-war Communist espionage ring.

Chambers testified before the grand jury at length yesterday and was closeted until early this morning with members of the House-Un-American Activities Committee, who hastened here to talk with him.

Chambers' appearance before the grand jury coincided with the committee's disclosure that the ex-Communist previously had accused Alger Hiss, former State Department official, of slipping him "restricted" documents for delivery to a Russian agent.

The New York Herald Tribune said today that Rep. Richard M. Nixon, chairman of the House Un-American Activities subcommittee which came here, had disclosed he will ask the grand jury for permission to appear before it.

Nixon, the newspaper said, wants to submit information he and other members of the committee have about the controversy involving Chambers and Hiss.

If allowed to testify Nixon will ask the jury to urge appointment of a special assistant attorney general in the case, according to the Herald Tribune.

In Washington yesterday, Nixon told reporters that the committee received from Chambers three documents in Hiss' handwriting. He said they have been submitted to a government handwriting expert who said "conclusively and without qualification" that these are in the handwriting of Mr. Hiss.

A reporter asked if there was anything to show that the documents were not something that Hiss had put into State Department files and some one else had removed.

Nixon replied: "All I can say on that point is that I have read the record carefully and from reading the documents it is apparent that the form and content are such that they were obviously not intended to be simply a part of State Department records."

Chambers and Hiss went before the grand jury yesterday in a follow-up to committee reports of new and startling evidence of a pre-war Communist underground. Neither Chambers nor Hiss would Continued on Page Eleven

To Ask Mail Rates Boost

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Postmaster General Donaldson said today he will ask the new Congress to boost rates on all mail except first class.

Donaldson told newsmen that higher rates "will have to come on all" revenue-producing mail.

He talked with reporters at the White House after conferring with President Truman, but said he had not discussed the matter with Mr. Truman.

He said the President is "not acquainted" with situation, but he will be.

In reply to a question, Donaldson said he would ask Congress to increase rates after clearing the matter through the White House and the Budget Bureau.

He said increases will be asked for second class mail, newspapers and magazines, third class, circulars and advertising, fourth class, parcel post, and special services, such as money orders.

Donaldson told reporters the Post Office Department will have an all-time record deficit of $550,000,000 at the close of this fiscal year next June 30.

He said that compares with a deficit of $310,000,000 for the fiscal year which ended last June 30. Donaldson estimated the second class mail deficit for this year at $207,000,000; third class $129,000,000 and fourth class at $85,000,000.

Bixby Is in Charge
District Engineer Named
Director of Work in Area

Albany, Dec. 7—The first paving on the Thruway will be provided in a $2,899,473.50 contract awarded to the Lane Construction Corp., of Meriden, Conn., by Bertrand D. Tallamy, New York state superintendent of public works.

Included will be concrete paving of two 25-foot arteries on a 3.62-mile section previously graded from the Greene county line southward to Ulster county to a point below Canoe Hill Road; grading and paving on 1.63 miles of new Thruway which will continue southward past Route 32A, near Saugerties; construction of traffic interchange facilities and a total of 1.2 miles of reconstruction with concrete pavement on Routes 32A and 212; construction of five grade separation structures and of all necessary drainage structures and facilities.

Scheduled for completion late next year, the work will be under the direction of James S. Bixby, district engineer in charge of the department's Poughkeepsie office.

The previously graded portion of the project extends from the Greene county line southward to a point one-quarter mile south of Canoe Hill road. Payment here will include two 25-foot concrete arteries. There will be a 44-foot strip separating the arteries to provide for possible addition of one 12-foot paved lane to each artery plus a 20-foot central mall. Side slopes and mail areas will be covered with top soil which was salvaged from the initial grading operations and stored in stockpiles adjacent to the roadways. Slopes and mail will be seeded after paving and final surface grading are completed.

Four grade separation structures which will be constructed on this section of the project will be of T-beam deck type, have four spans each and will vary in overall length from 204 to 220 feet. Each will carry a local road over the Thruway. Piers will be of concrete and will be located in the mall and outside of the ten-foot shoulders which flank the paved arteries. Abutments will be placed at the top of the approach fills on either end. Safety walks will flank the roadways over the structures. The structures will be located at Canoe Hill road, Malden road, Katsbaan road and Asbury road. Traffic interchange facilities with the Thruway will be provided at the Malden road structure which will have an upper roadway width of 28 feet. The other three structures will have roadways 24 feet in width.

Direction of Work
New construction beyond the presently graded section of the Thruway will continue in a southeasterly direction through the Jennie M. Terwilliger property and into the property of Albert Reice and Irving Kalish where the line will start a gradual curve that will continue for one-half mile to Route 32A which will be crossed at approximately right angles at Continued on Page Thirteen

Dewey Urges Purchase Of Christmas Seals

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Governor Dewey urged New Yorkers today to buy Christmas Seals and "share in our fight on tuberculosis."

Dewey proclaimed December as "Christmas Seal month." He said: "The state of New York was the first state in the union to institute a program aimed at the eradication of tuberculosis within the state in twenty years."

"No such program," he continued, "can be completely effective without the cooperation of the people of New York, of individuals as well as of volunteer agencies."

Fish and Game

The open season for deer and bear grows more colorful with each passing year as regards, not the resplendent fall foliage which only the oaks still retain in contrast to the riot of forest color which obtained in the years when the season began at an earlier date, but rather in respect to the habits of the more youthful nimrods. Last week the mountain towns swarmed with brilliant scarlet caps, coats and pants, and even red-topped boots. Add a string of shiny brass cartridges around the waist-line of a virile young hunter and you have a rig that catches the girls' side-long glances, almost as much as uniforms do in war times. One suspects that these rifle-toting Beau Brummels are not far from deer, who, in pausing to admire, do thus place themselves in double jeopardy.

Busy Bard Professor Goes Into Many Research Fields: Easter Island to Doodling

Journeys of the mind have taken Dr. Werner Wolff, professor of psychology at Bard College to lesser-known spheres including the depths of human personality, and in recent years have attracted notice beyond that of his professional colleagues.

Science, undoubtedly, has the greater interest in his recent analysis of findings on Easter Island in the far Pacific, but the layman perks up when he analyzes personality from handwriting and the universal habit of doodling.

Dr. Wolff, because of his many years of psychological research and writing, has figured in recent news and magazine articles, and he has written several books based on his work, but a reporter found recently that he has an avocation closely related to his work which should win him new attention.

The reporter is certain that the professor's drawing and painting, which he regards only as a hobby, has a direction based on his years of study and research in the field of symbols, ancient and so-called "modern," and this newsmen is hopeful that the world will take a look. But that is another story.

Most recent of Dr. Wolff's significant announcements was that he had detected a relationship between the hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt and the symbols of Easter Island, which has been known as "The Riddle of the Pacific," since the early 18th century.

Origin of the island's culture, of its script and hieroglyphics, the significance of its 50-ton statues and their mode of transportation along with the world conception of the natives, have made the island the mystery of anthropology. Dr. Wolff's recent report, therefore, is of special interest to science, and he told his story November 29 before 30 scientists at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Stimulus in Anthropology

The professor's study led to this island of mystery because he believes that psychology gets its greatest stimulation from anthropology. He had studied and conducted research for years in the field of symbols in ancient civilization, primitive peoples and primitive man, and in his work he became fascinated by the symbols of the island devoting 15 years to its study.

One of Dr. Wolff's recently published books, "Island of Death," is based on his findings. It was published by J. J. Augustin of New York. The other is "Diagrams of the Unconscious," and was published by Grune & Stratton.

Recently finished is a book on Biblical Concepts and he is currently working on "The Psychology of Art and Imagination." Other books published in the past were "The Expression of Personality," Harper and Brothers; "What is Psychology," Grune & Stratton, and "The Personality of the Pre-school Child," same publisher. Dr. Wolff also completed a film at Bard College on "The Unity of Personality and that is in the psychological cinema register of Pennsylvania State College.

Article in Collier's

An article in Collier's Magazine, issue of last May 22, titled, "Doodles International," and written by O. Henry Brandon, told of Dr. Wolff's analysis of outstanding world personalities through their doodles.

The doodles were collected by author Brandon, who reported in the article that he was amazed at the personality and character descriptions supplied by Dr. Wolff, who did not know the name of each doodler until after he had analyzed their random sketches.

The doodlings of Andrei A. Gromyko, Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations, for instance, to Dr. Wolff represented a man of "great nervous tension," and he explained that his tendency to repeat the same lines over and over in his doodling, indicated that he has what in clinical terms is called a "compulsion neurosis."

The latter means, he explained, that a person is under compulsion to act in a certain way, like one who suffers from an obsession to wash his hands continuously. And author Brandon explained that "Everyone, who has listened to Mr. Gromyko's performances in the United Nations will agree with this diagnosis."

Other doodlings analyzed in the article were those of John Foster Dulles, Senator Vandenberg, Truett L. Lee, the United Nations general secretary, and Dr. Wellington Koo, China's ambassador to the U. S.

Dr. Wolff also figured in an article titled "Personality," stressing clues in faces and manners and bearing, and appearing in Life Magazine, issue of Jan. 18, 1943. In 1938 he published a book on Maya.

The professor's book, "The Expression of Personality," is a report of his experiments in personality conducted since 1925 at the University of Berlin, in Barcelona, at Vassar College, Brooklyn College, and Columbia University. Professor Gardner Murphy, under whose editorship the volume was published, described it as "one of the most important psychological books of the era."

Never Visited Island

The recent book on Easter Island is of singular interest because of the fact that Dr. Wolff has never visited the island which is about 2,000 miles off the coast of Chile in the South Pacific and 1,100 miles east of Pitcairn. It is the most isolated outpost of the Polynesian race. The author of the book believes the island may also have been influenced by Aztec culture, and he sees some resemblance to African pieces in the woodcarvings found there. He will go there, he said, if an expedition is established for continuation of his studies.

The task of compiling and writing one book after another along with his regular work as an educator, would seem full enough schedule for any man, but Dr. Wolff seems to find more than a

The State Board of Canvassers announced official figures yesterday. They gave Gov. Thomas E. Dewey 2,841,163 votes. This represented .0012 per cent more than the 2,837,848 compiled by the AP more than a month earlier.

President Truman's official total was 2,780,204, which was only .0008 per cent below the AP's figure of 2,782,595.

Auto Association Says 45,000 Car Dealers 'Smeared'

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National Automobile Dealers Association said today a House committee "smeared" some 45,000 new car dealers by linking them to trade practices uncovered in only five local cases.

By restricting its hearings to the Washington area, the trade group said, the committee headed by Rep. Mace (R-N.Y.) failed to prove its charges that new car buyers in general were "gouged" out of $450,000,000 during the first seven months of 1948.

The Mace group wound up hearings last week after testimony that in the local cases under investigation $500 "tips" often were given salesmen to get a new car; that trade-ins were greatly undervalued; that "waiting lists" sometimes were juggled; and that new models were loaded down with unwanted "extras."

Mace said hearings might be resumed later in other cities if more funds can be obtained from Congress. He also said that if the automobile industry does not do its own "housecleaning" Congress may step in.

The dealers association said in a statement the Mace committee never presented "substantial evidence" to back up its charges of a $450,000,000 "gouging" on a nationwide scale.

"The figure doubtless was arrived at," it said, "by averaging alleged 'gouges' in the cases of the five Washington dealers and then multiplying the average amount obtained by the total number of new car dealers in the nation."

"Thus some 45,000 new car dealers into whose operations the subcommittee never had inquired specifically were publicly smeared, regardless of their guilt or innocence."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Faint signs of a comeback appeared in the stock market today after an early decline.

Losses were still well in the majority but many of the widest declines were shaded and some issues managed to climb to the plus side. Changes either way were generally a point or less.

Trading was fairly active at the outset, soon slackened, and then expanded when rallying tendencies developed.

The market was largely a professional affair, brokers reported. Tax selling continued, but not at any great rate, while considerable speculative and investment buying was based on the theory that a December rally was still in the offing.

Lower prices were paid for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, N. Y. Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Illinois Central, Gulf Oil, Mission Corp., Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Mont-

Myron Avery, 18, of Palentown, was sentenced to a total of 80 days in jail or an $80 fine by Justice of the Peace Percy Barley of Accord on three charges resulting from an accident on Route 209 near Accord Sunday morning. Sheriff George S. Smith reported. The sentences were $50 or 50 days for reckless driving, $25 or 25 days for driving without an operator's license and $5 or five days for having more than three persons in the front seat. Avery pleaded guilty to all charges.

Avery was returned to the county jail following arraignment this morning, pending payment of the fines, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Smith said. The condition of Miss Burke was reported to be "good," at the hospital today.

Mrs. Goudy Elected President of Bird Club

Mrs. Frederic T. Goudy, daughter-in-law of the late Frederic Goudy, noted type designer of Marlborough, was named president of a group of 50 bird-lovers from Ulster and Rockland counties who met in Newburgh Sunday night to form the Frederic and Bertha Goudy Memorial Bird Lovers Association. The association proposes to establish a bird sanctuary on the former Goudy estate at Marlborough.

Establishment of the bird sanctuary has been approved by the new owner of the Goudy estate, Ralph C. Coxhead chairman of the board of directors of the Ralph C. Coxhead Corporation of New York. Eggs Go Down

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Wholesale egg prices declined to their lowest level of the year on the New York Mercantile Exchange today. And several store chains immediately announced retail reductions in all grades effective tomorrow. An exchange spokesman said today's wholesale price of 55 cents a dozen for top grade eggs represented a total decline of 18 cents a dozen in the past three weeks. He attributed the drop to a plentiful supply at a time when consumption was "retarded by housewives remonstrating against the retail price."

Many chain stores in the metropolitan area cut their prices for grade A white eggs to 75 cents a dozen effective tomorrow morning. The same grade was selling at the all-time high of 95 cents on the first of November. Last year at this time, the price was 89 cents.

Wilna Hervey May Enter Video Field In Trolley Series

Woodstock, Dec. 6—Rumors have it that the hilarious two-reelers of the twenties may soon be revived for television. If the efforts of a certain group now working on it, prove successful, movie-goers in the days of the silent films will well remember powerful Katrinka of the Toonerville Trolley and Pop Tuttle series, and numerous others. How Wilna Hervey who first came to Woodstock as an art student in 1918 and just two years later began to bowl over audiences from coast to coast as Katrinka is indeed an interesting story.

Always a shy person, Wilna asked but two things of life, a well-stocked farm in Woodstock and plenty of time to paint. Little did she realize as the young student that both wishes were to be fulfilled but through a medium she would have never dreamed. It was all an accident, according to the former comedy star. She was attending the Art Students League in New York city at the time and since her parents lived in Far Rockaway, she occasionally stayed overnight in the city with a family friend. On one such occasion while marketing, she saw a huge crowd gathering and being a very curious individual, lost no time in joining the others. Unknown to her, a movie was in the making and she in it.

Her desire to help others has always been a strong one and it was not too difficult therefore for the director to prevail upon her to "help" them out. Before long, Wilna found herself making 12 pictures annually, the first of which was at the Lubin Studios, Betzwood, Pa., under the direction of Ira Laurie and Bob Eddy; then on to San Francisco where she went on location at Belmont. The latter was chosen because of its being a rural community, and then on to Hollywood.

Helped by Mission

Unlike most stars, Wilna seldom saw a finished picture. She said, "I was tired of looking at them long before they were completed. You see each day we saw the rushes of the previous day's work." The late Dan Mason, described by Miss Hervey as one of the greatest comedians ever to appear on the legitimate stage, was the skipper in her pictures. "Working with him was wonderful," said Wilna, "and he taught me a great deal about acting." Through him, she met his daughter, also an artist, Nan Mason. A friendship started in those years still continues. The two ladies share a home in Beardsville.

Interesting too is the fact that Dan Mason played in the Opera House, Kingston, in the late seventies, when, said Nan, "Rondout was a separate town."

When asked about some of the exciting feats of her career, Wilna said in the beginning, I enjoyed the excitement of it all, particularly when I was making a picture with Johnny Dooley and at the end we both had to jump frequent intervals, saw the "rushes." This was the schedule for six days each week. "Once in a great while we were free on Saturdays which seemed like a wonderful vacation, and Nan and I used such time to see something of California."

What could have been a fatal accident occurred in the early twenties while doing a picture near Norristown, Pa. It was a story about the local fire department. At Williams Corner, was one of the old-fashioned fire alarms, and Wilna was given an enormous sledge hammer with which to hit it to give the fire signal. She was directed "to hit it with all your might." She did, expecting plenty of resistance, but soon discovered to her sorrow that the lower half was made of papier mache. There was no resistance, she lost her balance, and the sledge hammer landed on her foot. Shooting had to be called off for the rest of the day.

We learned of another unexpected episode in her career when Dan Mason was the victim. They were on a springboard, and forgetting her strength when she jumped on it, the force was so great that "poor Dan" took off into the air and finally fell to the floor. He was then 70 years old and had two personal appearances to make that evening. "How he ever did it, I'll never know," Wilna said.

Decided on Woodstock: The call of the canvas and a farm in Woodstock proved to be too much for Wilna, and when Frank Capra told her if she really wanted to make a success in pictures, she would have to forget all about Woodstock, she made her decision, came to Woodstock, bought her farm in Beardsville and began painting again.

Having always been fond of animals and horses in particular, she is a great believer in teaching the children to ride at an early age. Buster Brown, a Shetland pony with plenty of pep and personality, is the sole occupant of the fine barn on Wilna and Nan's place, and many youngsters in the community are learning to ride because of the interest shown by these two ladies.

During her many years as a resident, Miss Hervey has been active in civic affairs, her latest interest having been, the organization of the Woodstock Memorial Association of which she is the honorary president. Although a most retiring sort of person, many hope if the early comedies are revived, that Wilna will consent to making some personal appearances when they are shown.

Miss Hervey's paintings are in several collections and she is one of the many Woodstock artists whose Christmas cards are sponsored by the American Artists Association.

Aggregate weight of the dome on the U. S. Capitol building is 8,909,200 pounds.

Kingston Rotary Club Opposed to Train Curtailment

The Kingston Rotary Club has expressed its disapproval of the contemplated move upon the part of the New York Central Railroad to curtail passenger service on the West Shore Division. Following is a copy of the communication to the general passenger agent:

December 4, 1948.
Mr. E. E. Pierce,
General Passenger Agent,
New York Central Lines,
New York, N. Y.
Dear Sir:

It has come to our attention that the New York Central Railroad is contemplating the curtailment of passenger service on the West Shore Division and the closing of passenger stations at Kingston and Rhinecliff on Sundays and holidays.

The Kingston Rotary Club wishes to go on record as unalterably opposed to such action.

With the West Shore division reduced virtually to the status of a freight line, the further curtailment of our already meager facilities for passenger traffic would affect adversely the prosperity of this entire region. We refuse to believe that your company would deliberately cause serious inconvenience to the traveling public through the closing of these two stations.

You are aware, of course, that the prosperity of every community is dependent to a very considerable degree on the adequacy of the service provided by the railroad companies. It follows logically that whatever is good for the community is good for the railroad. If the community prospers, the railroad prospers. The interdependence of railroad and community is immediately apparent. Teamwork is, therefore, highly essential. In view of these facts, why should the New York Central continue its policy of gradually isolating the communities on this side of the river by taking away from them much needed travel facilities?

Generally speaking, public utilities are regarded as public servants. Railroads are expected to serve the public to the limit of their ability—even to the extent of continuing certain phases of their service which may not at all seasons yield a satisfactory profit. Responsibility to the public should not be completely subordinated to responsibility to stockholders. Wise indeed is the business that recognizes its duties to the public. Time and time again it has been proved that this responsibility cannot be ignored or sidestepped without incurring public ill will—a condition which eventually leads to hostility, distrust, and loss of patronage.

We feel confident that you will see the fairness of our position and that you will give the people of this area the consideration they deserve.

We hope, too, that any action taken affecting passenger service will be in the direction of increasing rather than of decreasing the facilities for travel available to the people of Kingston and vicinity.

Earnestly yours,
KINGSTON ROTARY CLUB;
(Signed) Burton S. Davis,
President.

Records Probed In Rackets Charge

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Office records of five steamship companies and two steamship companies are under study by City Investigation Commission today, following a waterfront racketeering charge.

Murtagh, who opened his investigation yesterday into reports of crime at three city-owned piers, issued subpoenas for seven officers of the seven companies.

Other subpoenas were issued for three more persons, believed to be leaders of labor unions which have worked at the three piers.

In another move in the inquiry, Murtagh swore in C. Joseph Minetti, commissioner of the Department of Marine and Aviation, as a special deputy commissioner of investigation. Murtagh also briefed officers of the newly-formed police pier racket squad.

Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander called in his commanding officers from all boroughs of the city and told them he wants "immediate action and immediate results" in cleaning up the waterfront.

Wallander announced that police angles of the drive will be directed by Deputy Chief Inspector Edward Mullins, head of the pier racket squad.

Murtagh said "I don't think the job will be too easy," and declared he expects the inquiry to take months.

After its start at the three so-called "hot" piers on the Hudson river in Greenwich Village, the probe will take in all the city's waterfront if "leads develop," Murtagh said.

Mayor William O'Dwyer ordered the investigation last Friday after Minetti reported to him that companies were afraid to lease the "hot" piers because of waterfront crime and unfair labor practices.

Murtagh said yesterday: "What I'm looking for is all kinds of irregularities—criminal and non-criminal—which have been interfering with these piers. They are now idle, and it is my job to find out why three attractive piers are not used by steamship companies."

Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan promised cooperation.

Minetti was a deputy investigation commissioner before he became head of the marine department in May, 1947, following his uncovering of a scandal involving the subleasing of city-owned piers.

"Sausage" comes from the Latin "salsus," meaning salted or preserved meat.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Who remembers the "sleeping beauties" of the furniture store show windows who invaded Kingston around the 1930's? As I remember one was in the Rose and Gorman store uptown and one in a downtown store. Another lady was encased in a glass arrangement at Huling's Barn grounds. One could look at her through a glass window. The girls all looked as comfortable as an advertisement. So they spent several days of sleeping within sight of all onlookers. I am still wondering how it was done. At that time I even envied the cop on night duty and in fact questioned him about it, but he wouldn't tell. Could it be possible that the girls actually slept in hypnotic sleep as they would have you believe throughout the several days without taking off to have a sandwich and a cup of coffee once in a while. Who remembers and is now willing to tell about these sleeping beauties? This stunt was used even as far back as the old Academy of Music days on East O'Reilly street. (This hall was burned to the ground on June 11, 1901). Those were the days when Dr. Sahler of Sahler's Sanitarium used to visit all these hypnotic shows, for he himself found success in treating some of his patients with hypnotism.

Who remembers "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy"? It was compounded on Ferry street in Rondout. Dr. Kennedy, as far as I know was the only physician in Kingston (1892-1895). Although he died in 1901 his remedy continued to be a "must" in every medicine chest and after 43 years run in Kingston it was sold October 1, 1918 to the Troy Chemical Co. of Binghamton to where the laboratory was removed. In his early days, Dr. Kennedy had tried his luck at the gold fields of California, little did he know then that his "gold fields" would be in Rondout to later establish one of the largest laboratories in the country and to make a medicine which would be popular from coast to coast and even in Canada. (At the outbreak of the Civil War he was made captain in the Medical Corps and was surgeon-in-charge of several army hospitals. One was the Satterlee Hospital, U. S. Army at Philadelphia.)

No More Neighbors

By FRANK TRIPP

Most city folks can't tell who lives down the street; many don't know who lives next door—nor care. Neighborhoods used to be quite self-sufficient in many ways. People depended upon each other more, fraternized in groups living near each other.

They had no cars to travel nightly where they wished; getting about was a bother. There weren't many places for ordinary folks to go, not much to do; no movies, radio, night clubs, cocktail lounges, hide-outs, few public dances, shows and concerts. Clubs were only for the wealthy; churches for the devout.

Lodges and saloons got the biggest masculine play, according to the tendencies of those who just couldn't stay home. There always have been such people. Of other family members who couldn't bear each other's company for long, most escaped by dropping in on the neighbors for the evening.

THEY HAD neighborhood suppers and played parlor games. They sang the latest ballads from Tin Pan Alley. Jimmie poked out the melody on the old square piano. The neighborhood cut-up did some card tricks. The best popped corn and served cider. Bunches of 500, old maid, casino, light, charades, dominoes, crokinole, riddlewinks, were played under bespangled kerosene hanging lamps in overstuffed, what-notted, dollied parlors.

Out in the kitchen in some neighborhoods the males of the block gathered over a growler of suds, fetched from the corner thirst-quenching emporium. They met to wrest a few shekels from each other at the frowned upon game of poker. The stakes were low but it was for keeps.

They played real poker, with no cards wild, and no wild players—at the outset; not until the third growler was emptied. By then the old lady would appear from the parlor and spoil an otherwise hilarious evening. Oh, they all had fun, according to their own fancy, don't underestimate that.

THEN THERE WOULD come times when being neighborly was a matter of life and death. Somebody would be suddenly sick and in the middle of the night Mrs. McInerney would come over and sit till dawn. Her boy Joe would run to Druggist Hooker's house. He'd go down to his store, maybe through the snow, and send back a bottle of paregoric or one of Humphrey's Home Remedy No. 87, which helped Mrs. O'Dell so much when she had the tisis.

It would be an extreme emergency when Joe ran for the doctor. That poor guy seldom came into the picture until after every favorite neighborhood remedy had failed. "Cause he got a whole dollar a call, day or night, and if you called him like as not he'd come again next day and run your bill up.

He didn't even get in on many a childbirth. Plenty of neighborhoods had their own setups for the blessed event. There was somebody in almost every block who could do anything up to setting a broken leg—or tried.

And as for domicile upkeep, not long short of building a new house would lure a householder out of his own neighborhood; where all the tools, gadgets and the know-how, a variety could be found, for free, or for swap for services to be rendered.

THE sitting-up-with-the-sick practice was a swell alibi for husbands who stayed out late. Women must have been awful dumb, for it worked; until Puck and Judge joked it into suspicion.

Here's one way the funny paper spoiled the racket, back around 1890:

Husband—"It ain't four o'clock—hic—I just heard the clock strike one—hic—four times."
Wife—"You good for nothing s-y. Where have you been?"
Husband—"Don't you abuse me—hic—you brute. I've been—hic—sitting up with a—hic—I mean with a sick—hic—friend."

The poster girl, Linda Brown, 4, of San Antonio, Tex., was a victim of the 1948 polio epidemic. All Ulster County Residents Urged To Buy Yule Seals

If Ulster county is to reach its goal of eradicating tuberculosis here, all residents must seize every opportunity to participate actively in the campaign against the disease, Dr. George James, commissioner of health of Ulster county, said today in a statement urging county-wide support of the 1948 Christmas Seal sale.

Dr. James stressed that the 1948 Seal sale was as important to the nation today as it was in 1907, the year of the first Seal sale in the United States, because "we still have a long road to travel before complete victory over the disease is attained."

Total returns from the first two weeks of the sale, which opened November 22, have reached $9,915.94 Edward P. Rochford, county Seal sale chairman announced. The sum is about 50 per cent of the county's $20,000 goal. The quota represents the minimum needed to carry out the association's 1949 tuberculosis prevention and control program, he explained.

Dr. James paid tribute to the work of the tuberculosis association in the past and added that the importance of its projects has increased, rather than lessened, with tuberculosis still taking nearly 50,000 American lives each year.

"While such a situation exists in this country," said Dr. James, "it is obvious that we cannot relax our vigilance and our efforts. There is an estimated 500,000 people with active tuberculosis in the United States and only half of them are known to the health authorities. The other quarter of a million people must be found and placed under treatment."

The tuberculosis association cooperates with the health department in finding these unknown cases. Its case-finding activities, as in the case of its other projects, are financed solely by the sale of Christmas Seals. A successful 1948 Christmas Seal sale, therefore, will mean that the association will be able to carry on in 1949 its important case-finding projects and work in assisting with the chest X-ray survey which contributes greatly to prevention and control of tuberculosis in this community.

you almost have to cry. And people get up poems for their Christmas cards so witty and mail them to their customers in far off Kansas City. In Washington our President, so handsome, brave and true, is wishing Christmas greetings to every one of you. And so is Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Clark. So Merry Christmas every one so free from care and work. In Europe and Australia and the various foreign places. The festive Christmas spirit gleams upon assorted faces. Nobody calls their neighbor any names like dirty liar. And citizens in Gotham greet Mayor William F. O'Dwyer. No matter how penurious or humble you may be. We hail the festive season in our great democracy.

But don't be fooled my fellow friends and suffer disappointment. The Communists you see have put a fly into the ointment. Where'er they are these dirty rats each form and shape and way. To do you dirt will try their best on Merry Christmas Day. And we must always be alert like brave Gibraltar's rock. Instead of Christmas greetings to these rats we give a sock. They are the lowest lowdown bums and hatred they do preach. They stir up hatred all the time. "Mild one and all for each. No Christmas spirit, gay and loving in their heart doth dwell. And all that I would say to them is 'you go straight to ----.' So Merry Merry Christmas and a Yule of glee and fun. My heart doth sing you greeting gay to each and every one. Y-Teen Clubs Hold Candlelighting Recognition Service at Kingston High School Monday Night

About 250 teen age girls participated in the Y-Teen Recognition service at the Kingston High School Auditorium Monday night as the program for Y.W.C.A. teen-agers was reviewed and new members were welcomed. Members of the various Y-Teen clubs led the ceremonial, a chorus of the girls under the direction of Mrs. Wilbur Burke led the singing, and Mrs. C. C. Rose, chairman of the teen age work on the Y.W. board of directors, lighted the first candle in the candle lighting recognition service.

In leading the litany of the Y.W.C.A. purpose, Miss Marjory Merritt spoke of the Y as "an opportunity to learn to work together, to share responsibility and to develop leadership... to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians."

Response to the litany was said by the Y-Teens. Miss Joan Smith recited a poem and Mrs. Burke directed the chorus in singing "The House I Live In."

Four of the girls spoke of the participation of Y-Teens in various phases of life.

Miss Eleanor Davis described the Y-Teen program in the Y.W.C.A. where the girls attend various conferences and are currently being considered at the national conference as possible voting members in the organization.

Miss Ellen Byrne discussing the participation of the group in school enumerated the teen-age clubs which start with the 8th grade in the Myron J. Michael School. Activities important on the school social calendar include the Tri-El May Day breakfast, Harvest Moon, Dance and Valentine Dance.

Miss Donna Hyatt spoke of the work of the teens in the community with the Youth Center maintained at the Y.W. building, the program of supplying baby sitters, the summer camp program and caroling at Christmas for the Home for the Aged. Y-Teens in the world was the topic discussed by Miss Muriel Weal. She reported 65 countries as knowing the Y-Teen program; the contribution of $300 to the reconstruction program throughout the world; sending of articles to Turkey and four boxes of shoes to Germany; and the study of the United Nations.

Miss Elaine Elgo, president of the Y-Teen Interclub Council gave the opening thought in the program and concluded the candlelighting service. During the ceremonial the Y-Teens sang two of their songs: the Y-Teen Hymn, and "If We Can Grow as Simply as Common Blades of Grass," in closing the group sang "Follow the Dream."

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

OLD SUBJECT FROM NEW READER

An obviously new reader of this column writes, "Nothing in table service irritates me so much as when a hostess has herself served first. I prefer to have food passed to the lady on my right first or, at dinner, to the lady at my husband's right. What is your opinion of this procedure?"

For 20 years I have called this behavior the Great American Rudeness. In other words, nothing is so ill-bred as the hostess who has herself served first at her own table when there is another woman present.

Bridegroom's Father As Best Man
Dear Mrs. Post: May a bridegroom's father take part in the wedding when there are young ushers and bridesmaids?

A answer: The bridegroom's father as best man does not walk in the processional or recessional. He merely stands beside his son during the ceremony. Of course, at a sit-down bridal table, he might seem out of place, with the young ushers and bridesmaids if he were seated with them.

Looks For Seats

Dear Mrs. Post: In a small town theatre, where there are no ushers, who goes down the aisle first to look for seats—the man or the woman?

Answer: They usually walk together. If the aisle is narrow, the man may go first to look for seats.

Looking For Seats

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 504, "The Etiquette of Table Setting," contains 20 "table-serving" questions and answers. These answers are very helpful to the young hostess. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 10.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Chambers Faces

disclose the nature of their testimony.

This same evidence, uncovered in a hollowed-out pumpkin on Chambers' Maryland farm, is the object of today's House committee session, to which Chambers was summoned.

While Chambers and Hiss were testifying in secret before the grand jury, the House group in Washington was publishing sworn testimony by Chambers that Hiss got government documents for a Russia agent.

Denies Accusations

Hiss countered immediately by saying "I deny without qualification the accusations made in that testimony."

As this new chapter in the long Hiss-Chambers case unfolded, Rep. John Rankin (D-Miss.), a member of the House Committee, said he is "convinced" the Russians fed purloined U. S. secrets to the Japanese before and during the war.

This, he added, in a statement at Washington, "contributed, to bringing on Pearl Harbor."

Rankin said "someone in the State Department was guilty of espionage." But he did not name any one.

"Russia had a Japanese ambassador in Moscow during the entire war, right up to the dropping of the atomic bomb," he said. "I am convinced that the Russians fed this information they received from the State Department files to the Japanese ambassador and that this contributed to bringing on Pearl Harbor."

Chambers' charges that Hiss piped out government papers which went to the Russians were disclosed by Nixon.

The testimony came from preliminary proceedings in a $75,000 libel suit Hiss has filed against Chambers, and named a "Colonel Bykov" as a Russian agent to whom Hiss allegedly gave the documents.

Chambers' testimony was taken under oath in Baltimore, with cross examination by Hiss' attorney in the libel proceedings.

Nixon said military information, was contained in some of the documents mentioned in the Baltimore testimony.

Documents Restricted

He said the documents were of the restricted class, naming in government parlance that they were for official eyes only.

Chambers, according to Nixon's reading of certain excerpts from the testimony, said this: "Some time in 1937 . . . J. Peters introduced me to a Russian who identified himself under the pseudonym Peter. . . The Russian, Peter, was one Colonel Bykov."

Colonel Bykov was extremely interested in the Washington apartment information got into Chambers' hands.

At the end of their session early today, Nixon said "we have accomplished our mission." No further disclosure was made of what happened at the hearing.

Nixon and McDowell had said on their arrival that they would talk with "two persons." Later they said one of the two would not appear.

With the session ended, the congressmen headed back for Washington and today's executive session of the committee.

At it, Nixon said, attention would turn to certain microfilmed documents found in the pumpkins on Chambers' farm.

Nixon said these microfilms do not relate to the documents referred to in the Baltimore testimony.

It was said that Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, might be a witness at today's hearing.

He has been reported to have told the committee that at least some of the microfilmed documents should not be made public in the interests of national security.

KEY FIGURES IN 'PUMPKIN CASE'

Following that meeting Alger Hiss began a fairly consistent flow of such material as we have before us here.

Un-American Activities Committee files show that the late Walter G. Krivitsky, onetime Soviet intelligence officer, once testified that a Boris Bykov had been chief of this service since 1936.

J. Peters, Chambers has testified, was the name allegedly used by the head of the Communist underground in the U. S.

Hiss, now president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, has denied Chambers' charges that he was a member of the "Communist apparatus." His libel suit is based on these charges.

After publishing Chambers' testimony, Nixon and Rep. John R. McDowell (R-Pa.), acting as a sub-committee of the House group, came to New York to question Chambers personally.

They said they were here to find out how top-secret State Department information got into Chambers' hands.

At the end of their session early today, Nixon said "we have accomplished our mission." No further disclosure was made of what happened at the hearing.

Nixon and McDowell had said on their arrival that they would talk with "two persons." Later they said one of the two would not appear.

Seven Japs Given

in which case:

"This public division of the court . . . puts the United States before the world, and particularly before Oriental peoples, in this awkward position: Having major responsibility for the capture of these Japanese prisoners, it also has responsibility for their fate.

"If their plea ends in a statement in this court, the authorities have no course but to execute sentences which half of this court tells the world are on so doubtful a legal foundation that they favor some kind of provisional relief and fuller review."

2. To vote for a tentative review of jurisdiction, as he did, even though:

"For this court now to call up these cases for judicial review under exclusively American law can only be regarded as a warning to our associates in the trials that no commitment of the President or of the military authorities . . . has finality of validity under our form of government unless it has the approval of this court."

"It would substantially handicap our country in asking other nations to rely upon the word or act of the President in affairs which only he is competent to conduct."

3. To vote against a review, thus permitting the executions to take place. If he did that, Jackson said:

"The Japanese will be executed and their partisans will forever point to the dissents of four members of the court to support their accusations that the United States gave them less than justice."

"This stain, whether deserved or not, would be impressed upon the record of the United States in oriental memory for all time to come."

Jackson said he feels that if the court should tread on the toes of America's Pacific allies by overreaching its possible jurisdiction, they will be more likely to understand than our former enemies would be "condone any excess of scruple."

Safe Christmas Urged by Newkirk

Mayor Newkirk today called upon the people of Kingston to join with the National Safety Council and other national co-operating organizations to make Christmas an accident-free holiday celebration this year.

"Christmas time is not only the season to be merry," the mayor said, "it is the season to be wary as well. The extra holiday hazards demand extra caution in meeting and overcoming them."

"We can have a safe and happy Christmas if every one of us makes up his mind to celebrate safely. A little extra caution, common sense and courtesy wrapped up in one big package will bring the gift of an accident-free holiday to all of us."

"Remember that if you and I look upon safety during the holiday celebration as our own personal responsibility to ourselves and our families, if our neighbors down the block make safety their responsibility, and if the people on the next street do likewise, it will be an easy job for all of us in Kingston to make this year's Christmas celebration the safest and merriest we have ever had."

Film Shows Foul

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—Slow motion films disclosed today that Lee Savold drove a low blow to Bruce Woodcock's groin just before he was disqualified in the fourth round of last night's heavyweight elimination bout at Harringay arena. The American fighter checked his right fist behind him and drove it into the lower left groin of the British Empire champion. Woodcock partly parried the punch with his left forearm. The film, run off privately for The Associated Press, shows Woodcock throwing his head back and wincing and then falling to the canvas, clutching his groin. Just how much the blow hurt the film cannot show.

About a Drummer Man:

In these days of high pressure football and kindred topics of controversy it is a pleasant digression to consider some of the more primitive pleasures of man—like beating a drum, a sport that has been going on since the Neanderthal man. The quality of drums has kept pace with the advance of civilization but the rhythm and tempo have remained the same down through the centuries. That is, until Gene Kruppa and later the bebop boys came along.

And another topnotch drummer man who was to earn greater distinction as a bierstube operator and prolific sports sponsor, Louis "Chic" Provenzano, operator of the flourishing Hofbrau, of course.

Remember Those Days!

Chic has an anniversary today. It's his 36th birthday and 15th in the tavern business. At the tender age of 36 (we say with reverence for a very particular reason) Provenzano is the youngest veteran in the business. If you'll check the records, you'll note that his entry into the business coincided almost to the day with the repeal of John Barleycorn's nightmare—the noble experiment of prohibition.

If you've attended any sports functions of late, you know about Chic's skill with the drums. He had to drop out of the big time because of family commitments. Today he specializes in rhythm on ladders, water glasses, stovepipes—anything except the standard equipment. Despite an absence of nearly 10 years from active playing, he is still on the terrific side.

Of Ferraro, the Trumpet Man:

His career started in 1929 when John Ferraro, the bowling wizard, was operating a hotshot band. As a trumpeter, Ferraro had few peers at the time but on this particular occasion he was without a drummer. He remembered the Provenzano kid who played on pots and pans and anything on which he could rap a few sticks. Chic got the emergency call, but it required a lot of coaxing to get his father's permission. The father relented and Provenzano was drafted. He was sensational despite the fact it was the first time he had ever played with a band.

Ferraro, the trumpeter, suggested a career for Chic, the 16-year-old kid. The father agreed, a set of drums were purchased and Chic was on his way. He was at his peak in 1934. As a member of the Henry's Aristocrats he was at the Playfair Club in Jamestown when misfortune hit his family. He was called off the road and that was the end of his professional musical career that would have been big time. He organized his own local band, played most of the county places, and was a big draw at the old Chic Rendezvous in Glisco.

A Really Great Sponsor:

One of the real sports-minded citizens of Kingston, he ranks with Addison Jones, Emil Jordan and of late, Len Sicker and Ramon Nadal as high powered sponsors. His eight bowling teams going at present, but has yet to win a major championship trophy. His first team won a trophy for him in 1941.

The girls delivered the trophy and a picture of the squad to his tavern. The picture of the team's captain, Antonette Battaglini, fascinated him. He fell in love with the picture. And then he married the girl. It was a fabulous wedding attended by some 1200 guests.

Still Wants That Trophy:

Chic has been a kind, generous sponsor for softball, baseball, basketball and bowling teams, concentrating on the latter. You know what happened to his Hofbrau nine in the 1948 City League. Sicker, who was one of the first men to do cash prizes for batting heats at the municipal stadium. His biggest ambition is to win a major trophy and show it off at the Hofbrau. He deserves one soon. Meanwhile, let's not overlook the excellent scoreboard he erected at the Athletic Field for the City Baseball League. Or the fact he distributed more than five dozens of baseballs to kids in the St. James street neighborhood.

Chic will do his stuff for the Christmas Cheer program at the municipal auditorium on December 14. Children are to be his act on a few broken down canoes, but whatever it is, it will be worth seeing and hearing.

Birthday congratulations to a fine, sports-minded citizen, successful business man and a real all-around sport.

THE WINNER IS CARRIED OFF

Reta Frederick continued to scorch the polished lanes Sunday night, her brilliant 576 series setting the pace for the Central Mixed League, male and female.

Mrs. Frederick soloed for 138, 177 and 211 as she paced Hudson Valley Diner to a three-game sweep over Rosendale and a deadlock for first place. En route the Diners upped their own team records with 950 and 2731.

Dick Howard contributed 202-569; Jake "Scribe" Chichelsky 217-547; Mary Bonacci 188-488; and John Frederick 203-551. Joe Enright anchored the losers with 220-521.

Ella Lowe posted a 186-513 for the all-winning Van Kleek's. Dick Williams notched 181-510 and John Lowe 176-502. John Sangi posted 226-542; Marge Logan 193-501; Jim Daniels 223-544; and Ralph Mayne 188-508.

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bruce Woodcock won the fight but lost the big prize—any hope for a world title match with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

Lee Savold lost the bout but showed himself a better man and worthier foe for Louis than the winner.

That sums up the slant of expert ringiders on the scheduled 10-round go here last night that had been plugged as an elimination contest for a world championship.

Woodcock, the British heavyweight champion, won the fight in the fourth round when Savold was disqualified for hitting below the belt. Savold, veteran ex-Minnesotan now billed from Paterson, N. J., was going strong at the time.

Sicklers, Potters, Villagers Notch Recreation League Wins

On the Line

Sickler's Delivery made it three in a row in the Recreation Basketball League, trouncing Miron Lumber, 51-37, to tie Boichert's for the league lead.

George Bloom was high scorer for Sickler's with 19 points, while Aaron Bahl unleashed several dazzling shots to pace Miron's. Bloom was hard to handle inside the foul line.

Potter Brothers continued their winning ways with an easy 54-30 conquest of Ray's Riversiders. Cliff Schoonmaker led the winners with 16, while his brother Don, and Engle, each scored 10. Boichert's paced Ray's "Specs" 41-23. Boichert was able to collect only seven.

Village Rest continued to play a good brand of ball, easily defeating Skyline, 40-27. Doyle of the Villagers was effective under the boards and scored 12 points to lead both squads.

U.S.C. Performance Praised by Leahy

Los Angeles, Dec. 7 (AP)—Jeff Cravath of Southern California turned in the coaching job of the year against Notre Dame last Saturday.

This comes from no less an authority than Coach Frank Leahy of the Fighting Irish. Discussing the great 14-14 struggle in the Coliseum, Leahy told Southern California football writers yesterday:

"Southern California's tie should give a tremendous lift to west coast football."

The Trojans, he added, "could have played any team in the country to a standstill."

Boyd Crumrine, Irish backfield tutor, added his word of praise: "That team's blocking and tackling was the finest we encountered all season and Southern California's great kicking kept us in a hole all afternoon."

HE CARRIES A BULLET IN HIS HEART

A Columbus, O., Marine veteran (left) receives another X-ray to determine if the bullet lodged in his heart by a Jap machine gun or rifle during the war has changed position. The X-ray (right) reveals that the bullet moves with the beat of the heart. The veteran prefers to remain unidentified, feeling that his condition might keep him from employment. (NEA Telephoto) a point some 200 feet to the east of the intersection of Routes 212 and 32A.

Continuing in a direction a little west of South, the Thruway line will cross to the west side of County Road 32, which leads to Mt. Marion, at the point where the C. H. G. & E. transmission line crosses over it. The present project will end at Veteran road approximately three-quarters of a mile south of Route 32A. This road will be intersected by the Thruway line at a point 250 feet east of the transmission line crossing.

Grading required in this southern section of the present project will be moderate as the natural ground is reasonably level. Complete drainage structures and facilities will be provided for the Thruway right of way which will average some 300 feet in width. Extensive relocation of Routes 32A, 212 and County Road 32 will be made in the vicinity of the grade separation structure which will be constructed 200 feet east of their common intersection. Complete traffic interchange facilities will be provided at that point including acceleration lanes designed to promote smooth merging of traffic from access roads with traffic on the Thruway.

To Use Deck Structure
The grade separation structure which will carry Route 32A over the Thruway will be of I-beam deck type with four spans having a total length of 230 feet. The two main spans over the Thruway arteries will each be 68 feet in length and supported on piers consisting of cylindrical columns and cross girders of concrete. Shorter approach spans will end on low abutments placed at the top of the approach fills. The upper roadway of the bridge will be 52 feet wide with safety walks provided on each side. Bridge railings will be of welded steel tube construction featuring horizontal lines and designed to facilitate snow removal.

Private property, required for right of way needed for this project, is acquired by the state. Owners of such property, not already contacted, will be visited in the near future by claim adjusters from the department's Bureau of Rights of Way and Claims in order to initiate and expedite the settlement of claims arising from such land acquisition. Maps showing what property is required are provided to each owner whose land is involved.

With most of the construction work to be performed on new location there should be no serious interference with traffic. In the vicinity of the intersection of the Thruway with Route 32A however drivers should exercise caution, not only for their own safety but in recognition of the many workmen who will be engaged on the project. Traffic will be maintained and courteous observance of warning signs and traffic regulations which may be established will greatly facilitate the work of the contractor's forces in completing this, the first paving project on the Thruway to be placed under contract.

on a multi-million dollar research and training program, which a Dewey source said last week would be launched next year, Hagerty said.

The program, aimed at reducing the increasing number of mental cases in the state, would seek to attract more doctors into the psychiatric field through scholarships and increase basic research.

The discussion indicated that Hagerty said that scholarships would be granted on a loan basis. They would be repayable if the recipient went directly into private practice but would be forgiven if he spent a specified period in state service, he added.

No decision was reached on whether the program would be conducted through the proposed $200,000,000 state university system or through state aid to medical schools.

If the Legislature approves the proposed bond issue, it would be the third put before the voters for housing construction and slum clearance. The total of $435,000,000 from the previous issues has been spent or committed, Hagerty said.

In 1938, a $300,000,000 issue was approved by the voters and in 1947, another $125,000,000 was voted.

The public hearings on the proposed establishment of a program of sickness disability benefits will be conducted in the Bar Association Building at New York Monday through Friday of next week.

Assembly Majority Leader Lee B. Mallier of Cornwall, chairman of the joint legislative committee on labor and industrial relations, will preside.

Hagerty said the group meeting with the governor considered desirable the sickness benefit plan proposed to Dewey last week by President Thomas A. Murray of the State Federation of Labor.

Meeting with Dewey were Lieut. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, Senate Majority Leader Benjamin F. Feinberg, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, Attorney General Nathaniel Goldstein, Comptroller Frank C. Moore, Charles D. Breit, Dewey's counsel, Paul Lockwood, Dewey's secretary, Wicks, Mailier, Stephens, and Hagerty.

Lyle F. Dimler of Stone Ridge reported to the police early Monday afternoon that while driving a car owned by Vincent Farrell, 236 Broadway, he struck Augustus Fisher, Jr., of 22 Mary's avenue on Clinton avenue at Henry street. He took Fisher to the Benedictine Hospital, he said, but the extent of his injuries was unknown.

Women's Names Added
New City, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The Rockland County Board of Supervisors announced yesterday it has added the names of 43 women to its grand jury panel. It was the first time in the history of the county, the board said, that women have been named for grand jury service. The appointments are to take effect January 1, 1949.

Firms Will Share Insurance Surplus

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—A record surplus of $126,665,306 in the state's unemployment insurance fund will be shared by 97,704 qualified firms.

The 1948 surplus is the largest in New York's history for a 12-month period. The 1947 surplus of $148,000,000 represented a 15-month accumulation of funds. The State Department of Labor announced yesterday that the surplus would be credited to employers against unemployment insurance taxes.

Notices of amounts credited will be mailed to qualified employers between Dec. 26 and Jan. 1, the department said. The credits may be applied against unemployment insurance taxes payable in 1949.

The department noted that the number of firms receiving credits is 2,891 more than last year. It added that 51 per cent of the total received top credit ratings entitling them to maximum tax credits.
